

BATTERY B ON ARRIVAL AT WARREN, ARIZ.

OFFICERS AT DINNER IN THE OPEN BEFORE MESS TENT WAS ERECTED. LEFT TO RIGHT—LIEUTS. MCGRATH, MOOREHEAD, WHITE, HODGE, VANDERHOOF AND CAPT. WILSON.

PRIVATE HINES EATING HIS FIRST MEAL IN CAMP.

UNLOADING GUN FROM CAR.

NOT DISTURBED BY NEWS OF MRS. AXTELL'S ACTION

ANOTHER COOL NIGHT, THEN A HEAT DELUGE

Hot Wave Due From West Tomorrow Morning Following Respite of Two Days.

Congressional Union Leaders Say Washington State Leader Will Not Support Mr. Wilson.

Local officers of the Women's Congressional Union are in no way disturbed by the telegram received today by Secretary Tumulty from George E. Ryan, secretary of the democratic state committee of Washington state, in which it is stated that Mrs. Frances C. Axtell, Washington state chairman of the Congressional Union, has resigned her position in order to run for Congress on the progressive ticket.

This action does not in any way indicate a lack of harmony in the women's ranks, as the Axtell family is in opposition to President Wilson, it was stated at local headquarters this morning, when the contents of the telegram from Mr. Ryan to Mr. Tumulty was made known.

Text of the Telegram.

The telegram is as follows: "Mrs. Frances C. Axtell, president of the Women's Congressional Union, now the women's party of the state of Washington, one of the most prominent club women of the state, one of two women elected to legislature and delegate to recent women's party convention at Colorado Springs, resigns as president of the union, comes out for President Wilson, charges campaign financed by republican national committee. Declares that all progressive legislation enacted would be nullified should Hughes be elected. Makes splendid statement in support of her position. No candidate for Congress on progressive party ticket, this state, but will receive support of members of the union in the district. She is one of the best platform speakers on coast. Will take stump for President Wilson. Large following among progressive party of which she is a staunch supporter.

Views of Local Leaders.

Although local members of the Congressional Union have not been apprised as yet by Mrs. Axtell of her resignation of the state chairmanship, the action does not surprise them, as she agreed to resign, they say, at the convention earlier in the month at Colorado Springs, in order that the women's party would not be supporting her as a party, she desiring to run for Congress on the progressive party ticket, of which she is a staunch supporter.

It is pointed out here that Mrs. Axtell is a member of the resolutions committee which brought in the report adopted at Colorado Springs in opposition to President Wilson, and it is declared that Mr. Ryan is mistaken when he says in his telegram that Mrs. Axtell will come out for President Wilson. The local suffragists feel sure, they say, that she would not come out for President Wilson under any circumstances.

CHATTANOOGA CARELESS CITY.

Street Railway Suspend Operations Because of Dispute With Men.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., August 24.—Chattanooga was without street car service this morning. No effort was made to send out cars on any line. The cars were all run into the barns at 8 o'clock last night, and no effort will be made to operate cars until an understanding has been reached between the men and the street car company regarding the demand of the men for recognition of the union. The men claim they have enough men to run a few cars, but deemed it better to stop all traffic until a settlement had been reached. Automobiles and jitneys were in service, but they were inadequate to supply the demand, and thousands of people were forced to walk in from the suburbs.

MEADOW CLUB SEMI-FINALS.

Washburn, Clothier, Roberts and Armstrong Constitute Quartet.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., August 24.—Four lawn tennis players drew into the semi-final round of the Meadow Club singles here today. Watson M. Washburn, the cup holder, took his place by the default of R. Norris Williams, 2d, former national champion. Williams' resignation was due to the fact that he did not wish to further risk his strained ankle.

W. J. Clothier, former national champion; Roland Roberts, San Francisco winner; and Joseph J. Armstrong, ex-champion of the Pennsylvania state championship, came through to the other bracket.

FAVORABLE REPORT MADE.

Hope Felt Senate Will Pass "Fake" Auction Bill This Session.

A favorable report on the so-called "fake" auction bill, designed to protect the people of the District from the inroads of inferior goods, was ordered by the Senate District committee today. The bill already has passed the House. The committee did not make any amendments and it is hoped to pass the bill at the present session. The report will be made by Senator Pomeroy of Ohio, chairman of the subcommittee on judiciary of the District committee.

MISSOURI REPUBLICANS ADJOURN.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., August 24.—The republican state convention adjourned yesterday afternoon after adopting a platform vigorously denouncing the democratic party for its administration of state affairs and declaring for a protective tariff, for a dignified and firm foreign policy and for the protection of American lives and rights in Mexico.

PRESIDENT DECLINES INVITATION.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 24.—In response to an invitation asking President Wilson to be the guest of the San Francisco Commercial Club should he come to this city in connection with his campaign for re-election, the President, in a letter, says: "Unhappily it is impossible for me to plan to go anywhere, particularly anywhere at a distance from Washington while the many critical matters are pressing upon me."

LIGHTING KILLS TWO PERSONS.

HARRISONBURG, Va., August 24.—Lightning killed Mrs. Grant Herring yesterday as she was taking clothes from a wire line in a new-old clothes store. Neal Gardner, who was standing in a door nearby, also was killed by the same bolt.

BIRD TREATY SENT TO SENATE.

The treaty recently negotiated between Great Britain and the United States for the protection of migratory insect-eating birds on both sides of the Canadian boundary was sent to the Senate today and referred to the committee on foreign relations.

TABLET TO JOHN BROWN UNVEILED.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., August 24.—A memorial tablet to John Brown, the American abolitionist, was unveiled at a commemorative ceremony yesterday at his grave near the village of North Elba, N. Y. Addresses were made by Myron T. Herrick, former ambassador to France; Rear Adm. Frank P. Fletcher, U. S. Navy; Stephen B. Weiss of New York; J. W. Warmuth, former Governor of Louisiana; Frank R. Sanborn, University of Chicago; and John E. Mulholland.

DISPUTE OVER TITERS.

TEMPORARILY ADJUSTED.

Late John R. McLean's Personal Missives to Go to Trust Company Subject to Inspection.

A modification of his decision of yesterday by Justice Stafford of the District Supreme Court and a stipulation by counsel on both sides temporarily adjusted today the controversy for the possession of the personal letters of the late John R. McLean, for which his son, Edward J. McLean, brought suit last month. The court receded from his decision to direct Francis T. Horner of New York and Baltimore to surrender the letters to the American Security and Trust Company, the executor of the estate, and made his order read merely to dissolve the injunction which had prevented Mr. Horner from surrendering the letters.

ATTORNEYS JOSEPH W. BAILEY, GEORGE P. HOOVER AND WILTON J. LAMBERT, after seeking to have the court allow a supersedeas bond, consented to a suggestion by Attorney Frank J. Hogan for the executor, that pending the proposed appeal of young McLean the letters should be held by the trust company subject to the view only of some of its officers and of counsel on both sides of the case.

When a stipulation to this effect had been prepared Senator Bailey made no objection to the signing of the decree dissolving the injunction. He also announced that, in view of the stipulation, no appeal would be prosecuted from the order of Justice Stafford.

MUST ANSWER SEPTEMBER 6.

Attorney George P. Hoover, for Mr. McLean, presented to the court an order, which was signed, giving Mr. McLean until September 6 to file an answer to the claim of the American Security and Trust Company that he is holding one of the letters found among his father's effects and should be required to surrender it to the executor.

The disposition of this letter was not covered by the order signed today. Attorney Hogan had drawn a decree in accordance with the opinion announced by Justice Stafford yesterday directing Mr. Horner to turn over the letters to the executor, Senator Bailey pointed out that the court should go farther than to dissolve the restraining order, as the direction to the defendant would be to deliver the letters to the executor, and the order would be to the contrary.

The stipulation provides that the trust company will hold the letters in confidence and will allow their inspection only to the executor, only to the president and trustee officer, its attorneys and by Mr. McLean and his counsel. The stipulation also provides that the letters may be made and inspection granted at any time to those entitled by the stipulation to look at them.

DISPOSITION OF THIS LETTER WAS NOT COVERED BY THE ORDER SIGNED TODAY.

ATTORNEY HOGAN HAD DRAWN A DECREE IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE OPINION ANNOUNCED BY JUSTICE STAFFORD YESTERDAY DIRECTING MR. HORNER TO TURN OVER THE LETTERS TO THE EXECUTOR, SENATOR BAILEY POINTED OUT THAT THE COURT SHOULD GO FARTHER THAN TO DISSOLVE THE RESTRAINING ORDER, AS THE DIRECTION TO THE DEFENDANT WOULD BE TO DELIVER THE LETTERS TO THE EXECUTOR, AND THE ORDER WOULD BE TO THE CONTRARY.

THE STIPULATION PROVIDES THAT THE TRUST COMPANY WILL HOLD THE LETTERS IN CONFIDENCE AND WILL ALLOW THEIR INSPECTION ONLY TO THE EXECUTOR, ONLY TO THE PRESIDENT AND TRUSTEE OFFICER, ITS ATTORNEYS AND BY MR. MCLEAN AND HIS COUNSEL. THE STIPULATION ALSO PROVIDES THAT THE LETTERS MAY BE MADE AND INSPECTION GRANTED AT ANY TIME TO THOSE ENTITLED BY THE STIPULATION TO LOOK AT THEM.

ROMANIAN SITUATION BRINGS ANXIOUS HOURS.

Hungarians Believe Newspapers Are Preparing Them for the Worst.

LONDON, August 24.—The Hungarian newspapers are being flooded with pessimistic information concerning Rumania, which is absorbing the public according to a Budapest dispatch to the Morning Post. The Hungarian public believes, says the dispatch, that the liberty they enjoy at the hands of the censor is designed to prepare the people for the worst. The military expert of the Pest-Naplo says: "The entry of Rumania into the war will not at first affect the military situation in the Balkans, for the Rumanian army is too small to play a decisive strategic part of the allies and will not be permitted to go straight for Transylvania. Dobruja and Bulgaria are the main objectives. Five hundred thousand or six hundred thousand men of the Rumanian army are not the chief factors for the consideration of the allies, but rather the problems presented by the new territory which the Russians will be able to use freely in the invasion of Hungary."

Activities in Transylvania.

Meanwhile the anxious hours are not being spent in idleness in Transylvania, where the Rumanian army is expected to be engaged in a series of operations. Rumanian sympathies are being shifted to other parts of the country. The Rumanian newspapers in Transylvania are under the strictest control, and the Rumanian army and churches are under military supervision. All along the Rumanian frontier the military and police are on the alert, and every precaution taken against Rumanian intervention.

Viewed Calmly in Berlin.

BERLIN, August 24.—Government circles here, though none too optimistic, view the Rumanian situation calmly, taking the attitude that it is Rumania's next move.

The feeling is that the central powers have made an effort to win the Rumanian's views, and that Rumania, in persisting in the course desired by the allies, has been making an error. The Rumanian party, will find the central powers ready, in which event it is to be expected that her efforts will be successful. It is believed that the new war theater is on Rumanian soil.

Information from Vienna indicates that the Rumanian government, bearing in mind the results of the negotiations concerning Italy's entry into the war, has decided to enter the war, has been at no time disposed to offer Rumania, similar concessions for fear this again would be mistaken for a sign of weakness.

At this moment there is no discernible change in the attitude of the central powers, and it is expected that Rumania will take any other course than one due to her own initiative. The latest dispatches from Vienna indicate that the central powers are making a further cooling off of the war fever.

COLLAPSE KILLS FIVE.

Many More Injured When Trestle Falls at Erie, Pa., Foundry.

ERIE, Pa., August 24.—At least five men were killed and many more injured when a trestle carrying a heavy load of iron collapsed at the plant of the National Foundry Company here today as the result of the collapse of a trestle carrying two heavy loads of iron. The trestle, which was built by the Erie Foundry and Machine Company, collapsed as a result of the failure of a support. The cause of the collapse is being investigated by the local authorities. The National Foundry Company has been in operation for many years and is one of the largest foundries in the country.

Lighting Kills Two Persons.

HARRISONBURG, Va., August 24.—Lightning killed Mrs. Grant Herring yesterday as she was taking clothes from a wire line in a new-old clothes store. Neal Gardner, who was standing in a door nearby, also was killed by the same bolt.

BIRD TREATY SENT TO SENATE.

The treaty recently negotiated between Great Britain and the United States for the protection of migratory insect-eating birds on both sides of the Canadian boundary was sent to the Senate today and referred to the committee on foreign relations.

PROPOSAL TO INCLUDE THE EIGHT-HOUR DAY IN THE CONSTITUTION

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Pleads for a Fair Inquiry to Adjust Railroad Dispute

Supporting the railroads in dispute, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has made public the copy of a letter sent to President Wilson last night, signed by R. Goodwyn Rhett, the president, as follows:

Required Information Lacking.

"Our committee in its investigations found that there were radical differences of opinion with reference to the questions involved which could only be settled justly after facts and figures, not then and not now available, had been definitely ascertained. That is, the present situation is such that an agreement between the parties to any proposition made by one party to the other or by a third party is impossible. It was stated by the employees that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show their hours of labor, and the only method of doing so was by fixing their 'basic working day' at eight hours and applying a penalty for overtime employment to enforce its practical application. The railroads insisted that the purpose of their demand was to show